

Why Independence for Florida and the South is Necessary:

- The consistently traditional voting pattern of the South is overwhelmed by the liberal votes of the majority of the United States. Recent elections have shown that the “Blue States” of the North and West are actually hostile to and have little to nothing in common with the “Red States” of the South.
- The majority will of the people of Florida regarding the sanctity of marriage enshrined in our State Constitution has been overthrown by a single U.S. federal judge.
- Enemies of the Southern people are taking down our flags, attempting to remove our monuments, topple our statues, destroy our symbols and even dig up the graves of our heroes
- The federal government is out of control and unanswerable to the people with no mechanism in place to rein it in.
- The current U.S. policy on both legal and illegal immigration is changing the cultural and social demographics of the South for the worse. The government is willing to secure the borders of foreign nations but not our own.
- Voters in large blocs, especially those who profit from the policies of the current political regime have a vested interest in preserving the status quo.
- The ballot box has been compromised offering no prospect of meaningful change and no real choice exists as long as the two major parties are in control.
- The U.S. Constitution guaranteeing State’s Rights has been made null and void with the central government assuming those powers guaranteed to the several states.
