

10 Reasons to Fly the Confederate Battle Flag

1. It is one of the oldest Christian symbols on Earth (The St. Andrews Cross) and silently, but eloquently lets the world know that a Christian family resides at the residence where it is flown.
2. It is a universal symbol of resistance to tyranny, having been sighted flying in nearly every modern day conflict around the world where people have fought an oppressive and despotic government. And, for us today, as in 1861 it still stands for States' Rights, limited government and Southern independence.
3. It lets the world know that you know where you came from and that you are proud of your ancestors without apology or permission.
4. It is a sign of unity that is instantly understood by all who are bound by Southern blood.
5. It is a constant and powerful reminder that we have not forgotten what the Yankees and their DC government did to our ancestors and are still doing to our Southern civilization and that we do not intend to forget, nor forgive until we have won our independence from them.
6. It honors the thousands of Southern men and boys whose blood was spilled and who lost their lives, homes and everything they had trying to win independence for our Southland and freedom for our people from an oppressive U.S. Government.
7. It is a reminder that Liberty is a God-given right, not a commodity to be controlled by greedy politicians, left-wing liberal teachers, and power-crazed federal activist judges. It is also a reminder that Liberty is worth fighting for.
8. The sight of it subtly stirs the embers of pride which still glow, ever so faintly in every real Southerner's heart and, which now more than ever needs to be re-kindled into a bright and blazing fire!
9. It lets those who would oppress us and steal our liberty know that they have not yet succeeded and will not succeed until they have killed every last one of us and destroyed every last Battle Flag. Let them try.
10. It symbolizes the unique Southern states where we, the Christian Anglo-Saxon-Celtic people of the South, a separate and distinct people from those to the North and West, have preserved and continue to preserve our honorable cultural heritage.
